Main topics of interest:

Atmospheric Chemistry and Physics with focus on atmospheric chemistry, physics, biogeochemical cycles and climate changes due to human activities and on gas/particle interactions, both via experimental and modelling studies. Recent focus on modelling of homogeneous and heterogeneous tropospheric chemistry and aerosol formation. Study of the human-driven changes in the oxidizing power of the atmosphere and the aerosol composition and their interactions with climate.

- Aerosols, air quality and climate: Our research focuses on the secondary aerosol formation and especially the organic component, the factors that control its variability, and the climatic impact of aerosols.
- The impact of volatile organic compounds on tropospheric chemistry and climate: Air pollution and global change issues related to the impact of VOCs on tropospheric oxidants, on nitrogen cycle and subsequently on climate.

- Biogeochemical Cycles: Our research focuses on the N, P and Fe cycles, how they are interconnected via atmospheric organic chemistry and atmospheric deposition and what is the impact of this deposition to the marine environment.
- The chemistry of the upper troposphere: The central point of our interest is the impact of oxygenated species on HOx UT/LS budget.
